To Whom it may concern

Donna Rivas excelled as a member of our Georgetown University, School of Continuing Studies, Certificate Program in Strategic Management. Ms. Rivas demonstrated an outstanding understanding of business management and strategic management concepts and approaches. She also demonstrated excellent analytical and communications skills and the ability to work in a team environment during group exercises.

As she progressed through the program, she cultivated a professional philosophy centered on analytical precision and strategic foresight. Her academic tenure, highlighted by intensive research in Strategic Management, has equipped her with the frameworks necessary to evaluate complex corporate structures and drive operational excellence. During our program, Ms. Rivas' in-depth case study evaluations of industry leaders, underscored her ability to synthesize high-level data into actionable business intelligence. Her class exercises also demonstrated her ability to leverage her background in finance and strategic planning to provide disciplined, data-driven support to a forward-thinking leadership team.

Based on her outstanding performance in our program, I would strongly recommend Ms. Rivas for a position in your organization.
